Careful estimates of the situation fix

Careful estimates of the situation fix the damage by the high water of Thursday and the day preceding to Henrico county roads, bridges and other property, at $5,000, and probably more. In certain sections the downpour of rain was something terrific and hitherto placid streams were quickly transformed into roaring torrents, which tossed bridges aside as if they were wists of straw.

"You can just say that Henrico county is all washed to pieces," said the chairman of the board of supervisors, Mr. H. C. Hechler, yesterday, "To repair the damage properly it will take at least $6,000." Continuing his statement, Mr. Hechler said that in many sections the roads themselves had been badly injured. Several culverts have been washed away, including one on the Boulevard, another on Brook road, and still another on Wilkerson road. Many bridges have been demolished. Bottom's bridge was swept away and two others back of Cakwood, and one on the Chesapeake and Ohio road are gone. The same is the case with many others.

Mr. C. W. Childrey, Commissioner of revenue for the Upper District, while traveling over the county has had opportunity to observe much of the damage portunity to observe much of the damage that has resulted from the rains. He reports that great damage has been done in the way of washed out roads, destroyed bridges, and culvarts washed away. The bridge on the Hernitage road is down. Crops have suffered considerably from the overflow of creeks.

While there was a pretty lively downpour in lower Henrico, also it seems that the greatest force of the storm was felt above. In this section the rainfall amounted to a veritable deluge.

The cause of this sorry spectacle was one James Andrew Roane, a negro man, charged with stealing all the articles aforesoid. There were five separate warrants against the fellow, charging him with five repetitions of the same offense-breaking into the cars of the Chesapeake and Ohlo in Fulton and stealing the clothes of the railway employes. When the man was arrested every article of clothing he had on his person was identified by somebody from whom he had stolen it, and piece after piece was pulled off until he had no more on. He was then rigged out in the jail habiliments. Other of the pilfered goods, sufficient to start a small store with, was gotten from pawnshops and from the man's house. The officers declare that they still haven't gotten it all.

The charge against Roane was a felony, and the case was sent on to the grand jury. cause of this sorry spectacle was for Needy Confederate Women.

The benefit for which the Society Amateur Circus is to be given at the Horse Show building July Fourth, should appeal strongly to the people of Richmond. The Home for Needy Confederate Women, for the benefit of which the two performances are to be given, is an institution deserving of the most hearty support. The present building which is used as the Home is entirely inadequate, and it is the purpose, if the necessary funds can be secured, to provide a place that will accommodate many of the old laddles whose applications are now on file. At present the Home accommodates only ten inmates, while there are nearly four hundred needy Confederate women who have applied for admission.

A Loss to Greensboro.

A Loss to Greensboro.

Greensboro would sustain a severe loss should Dr. Edgar W. Smith decide to accept the invitation to go to Richmond. It is to be hoped that he will decide to remain here, where he is doing a work which few, perhaps none, others could do. But those who know him know that he will go where he thinks he is needed most. Whether he goes or stays he will continue to be of great service to the cause of Christianity.—Greensboro Telegram.

Judge Garnett Named.

Judge G. Taylor Garnett, of Mathews, was yesterday named by Governor Montague to hold court for Judge Charles Catlett, of Gloucester. The case is one in which Judge Catlett is incapacitated to preside over, hence the designation.

THE ALLISON WILL CASE IS DECIDED

The Meaning of the Amended Decree Handed Down at Wytheville.

Wytheville.

The last opinion of the court in the Allison will case, rendered on June 11th, at Wytheville, is in effect the same that was rendered on March 12, 1903, as shown by the following extract:

"We are, therefore, of opinion with respect to the residuary clause, that it creates a life estate in Mrs. Dora Moore, a contingent fee in her child or children, and upon a failure of these intervening estates, the ultimate remainder which is up to that time contingent, will vest in those who were the heirs at law of the testator at his death."

Judge Cardwell dissented from the above opinion only to the extent of holding that the ultimate remainder to festator's heirs was vested instead of being contingent. That is, he was in favor of affirming the decision rendered by Judge Lamb in the Chancery Court, without and amendment whatever; while the majority of the court held that Judge Lamb's decision, (i. e., the decree based upon it), should be amended only to the extent of calling said remainder contingent, instead of vested. of calling said remainder contin-gent, instead of vested. Under this last decision, the property lights of the parties stand just as they lid under the decision of March 12th. The Concerning the conditions on the tobacco market during the past week, and Satisfaction at Their Reception. Another All-Day Session Was Held.

Milwaukee was the successful bidder for the next meeting of the Heptasophs. Nearly the whole of yesterday's session was devoted to the selection of the next meeting place, and after a sgramble, indulged in by the advocates of Asheville, Atlantic City, Brooklyn, Philadeighia, Baltimore, Niagara Falls and Milwaukee, the staunch old Northwestern city caught

Atlantic City, Brooklyn, Philadeiphia, Baltimore, Niagara Falis and Miliwaukee, the staunch old Northwestern city caught the prize.

After considerable debate, and upon the point that the enormous increase of membership and business deserved it, the salaries of the paid officials were increased in proportion to the increased in proportion to the increase of membership. The salary of the Supreme Archon was raised to $4,000, and the others were raised proportionately. Supreme Archon Cohen now devotes his whole time to the work of the order. Milwaukee is a convention city. Its hotel facilities are unsurpassed, and its surroundings are as fine as can be found for side trips and entertainments.

The new officers were installed, and the convention came to an end as one of the most successful yet held.

SAW THE SIGHTS.

There was no stated programme for the day. The delegates did as they pleased, and, despite the rain that came up, many of them left last night for their homes, but a large number will remain here until to-night and to-morrow, and the battlefields and other points of interest will be visited.

A large crowd of the Pennsylvania delegates went out to see the ball game yesterday, and were disappointed when the rain came down and broke up the game. ENTHUSIASTIC CONTINGENT. Pittsburg was largely represented at the convention, and that city is a great hase-ball center. The Pittsburgers are wedded to Richmond because some of the best ball players in the business started out from here, including Leever. Tannehill and Chesbro, all of whom played on the Pittsburg team.

Some of the enthusiasts will remain over and see the game this afternoon between Old Point and Richmond.

At the close of the meeting the delegates, who had not had a chance to fixpress themselves, arose as one man, and in most emphatic terms told what they thought of the reception that had been given them here.

They said that not in all their perceptications had they been better received or more gracefully and hospitably received.

At the Theatres.

"Davy Crockett" has proved a most satisfactory box office magnet at the Academy this week, and the two performances to-day promise to end the most successful week, financially, of the present season. It might be thought rather strange that a play so far removed from the modern style of stage material should have been found so satisfactory and so pleasing, but it only goes to prove that what people become attached to during their earlier years they remain attached to, in the mutter of plays, as well as in other things.

Next week at the Academy will witness the production of that perennial favorite, "The Silver King," a play which has probably been seen by a greater number of people than any other ever written, with the possible exception of "The Two Orphans," "East Lynne" and "Camille." Many requests for its production have reached Manager Giffen during his former stock seasons in Richmond, his former stock seasons in Richmond, and he has at last arranged to gratify the public taste. "The Silver King" needs little recomognomen.

"Mam'zelle 'Awkins' will be given at matinee and evening performances to-day, after which the Giffen Musical Comedy Company will leave the Southern territory for other fields north of the line.

The Bijou will have as its attraction next week those staunch old favorites, the Bijou Comedy Company, which returns in "Tuxedo." The piece is such an old established favorite that the mere announcement would be sufficient to crowd the house, even were the play in less expert hands than those of this crack organization of the Southern circit. The remand for seats has been very large, and the advance sale for the whole week is probably the largest that han ever occurred at the Broad Street theatre.
